Explanatory note

(1) On 9 August 2017 a Case Management Order in nearly identical terms was made by the President of the Employment Tribunal in England & Wales and the President of the Employment Tribunal in Scotland. The Orders had the intended effect of staying all claims and applications made to the Employment Tribunal in reliance upon the decision of the Supreme Court in R (on the application of Unison) v Lord Chancellor [2017] UKSC 51 (26 July 2017).

(2) The Employment Tribunal and its judiciary are separate from and independent of the Ministry of Justice and Her Majesty's Courts and Tribunals Service.

(3) The Case Management Order of 9 August 2017 and the present Order are not made by or at the behest of the Ministry of Justice and Her Majesty's Courts and Tribunals Service. They are judicial Orders made to further the overriding objective and thereby to safeguard the position of parties to actual or prospective Employment Tribunal claims.

(4) Since the Case Management Order of 9 August 2017, the intentions of the Ministry of Justice and Her Majesty's Courts and Tribunals Service in relation to the practical implications of the decision of the Supreme Court in R (on the application of Unison) v Lord Chancellor [2017] UKSC 51 (26 July 2017) have become clearer. It is expected that they will make an announcement in relation to administrative arrangements in respect of those implications shortly.

(5) As a result, it is apparent that the reimbursement of fees and the reinstatement of claims rejected or dismissed for non-payment of fees will be dealt with administratively and almost certainly without need for judicial intervention or judicial decision.

(6) On that basis, the general stay may be lifted. Claims or applications that rely to any extent upon the decision of the Supreme Court in R (on the application of Unison) v Lord Chancellor [2017] UKSC 51 (26 July 2017), other than in respect of reimbursement of fees or reinstatement of claims as above, may proceed to be considered in the usual way.
