

Family Justice Council

Bridget Lindley Memorial Lecture (online)

Given by Helen Adam, Mediator and chair of the Family Solutions Working Group

Is it Time for Climate Change in the Family Justice System?

Wednesday 6 April 2022, 10.05 – 11.00am (online)

This online event is being hosted as part of the Family Justice Council's annual interdisciplinary conference, which is being held in Bristol on Wednesday 6 April 2022. This year's topic will be 'Private Law – a proportionate and safe approach'.

For those who cannot attend in person, we are offering delegates the opportunity to view the Bridget Lindley Memorial lecture online. The event will be hosted by Sir Andrew McFarlane, President of the Family Division and Chair of the Family Justice Council.

The Bridget Lindley Memorial Lecture, now in its fifth year, was set up to commemorate the life and work of Bridget Lindley OBE who died in 2016. Bridget served with distinction as a member of the Family Justice Council and as the Family Rights Group's Principal Legal Adviser and Deputy Chief Executive.

This year's lecture will be given by Helen Adam, Mediator and chair of the Family Solutions Working Group. The title of the lecture is, 'Is it Time for Climate Change in the Family Justice System?'

Please use the attached link to register for the event. Registrations close on Monday 4 April at 3pm.

<https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/bridget-lindley-annual-memorial-lecture-by-helen-adam-mediator-online-tickets-301623151967>

A link to the live event will be sent to delegates in due course.

For any delegates, wishing to attend the main conference, please contact the FJC for information on how to register - fjc@justice.gov.uk