Dear Madam

Inquest into the death of Emma Pring - Regulation 28 Report to prevent future deaths
Our Client - Interweave Textiles Limited

As you know, we act for Interweave Textiles Limited. We refer to your regulation 28 report dated 3 April 2022.

Our client has already (and by 19 May 2022) completed taking steps directly to notify in writing those customers who had been supplied with products of the same sort as were worn by Emma Pring. Our client expressly referred to the destruction of the waistband for use as a ligature, and has recommended that customers check their current stock of seclusion garments, especially garments supplied before April 2021, for any damage. Customers were also been reminded that all garments (whenever they were supplied) should be checked on each occasion before they are provided to service users, and that any seclusion garments that are showing significant wear and tear or any damage should be disposed of and replaced. Customers have also been reminded that garments should only be used in combination with supervision.

In addition, our client has reviewed and updated the care instructions which it issues with seclusion products.
