

Family Justice Council - 15th Annual Debate

Should remote hearings continue to play a significant role in family cases?

Tuesday 6 December 2022, London and via Teams

The Family Justice Council is holding its 15th annual debate and panel discussion on Tuesday 6th December, from 17.30 to 19.30. The event will take place at a venue in London in person and will be live streamed via MS Teams.

The motion for this year's debate reads:

'Should remote hearings continue to play a significant role in family cases?'

The event will be chaired by Sir Andrew McFarlane, President of the Family Division and Chair of the Family Justice Council. The panel speakers will be announced shortly.

We aim to achieve a cross-section of all the key professions working in the family justice system and welcome applications from those who represent the interests of service users.

Please click here to register your attendance at the event. You will be asked to indicate whether you wish to attend in person or online via MS Teams.

Registration for the event will close on Friday 25 November 2022 for in person attendees and on Friday 2 December for online attendees.

As spaces at the venue will be limited, we will inform those applicants who have requested to attend in person whether they have been successful by Monday 28 November.

An MS Teams link will be sent to applicants attending online in due course.
