Dear [REDACTED],

In our practice we have yesterday discussed the Prevention of Future Death Report regarding Sarah Mitchell in a Clinical Governance meeting. Present in the meeting were myself and 8 other doctors as well as 3 of our Health Care Practitioners.

Two decisions were made:

1. The hospital does not easily have access to our clinical system, but they do have access to the Summary Care Records, which gives information about diagnosis and medication.

From now on when a diagnosis of an overdose gets recorded we will add a sentence to give no more controlled medication than is needed for 48 hours, so they can contact the surgery again for a further supply after. This should be visible on the summary care record that the hospital is looking at.

2. If a patient is admitted with more than 1 overdose within a 3 month period we will change their prescription to daily until they have not to overuse or overdose on their medication.

We hope that with these two new ways of working in place we might be able to bring down the chance of accidental death due to an overdose as seems to have happened in Sarah's case.

Kind regards,

[REDACTED]
